A Day Of Peace

Thursday, December 22, 2016

On December 22, 2016 Westview held a "Day of Peace". It was a day to remember and honour Caheem Montieth, as well as others we have lost. Caheem Montieth, also known to many others as "Clayshawn", was a former Westview Centennial student who was killed outside a home in the Jane Street and Shoreham Court area. The "Day of Peace" was a moment to bring the community together and prove that those we have lost will never be forgotten.

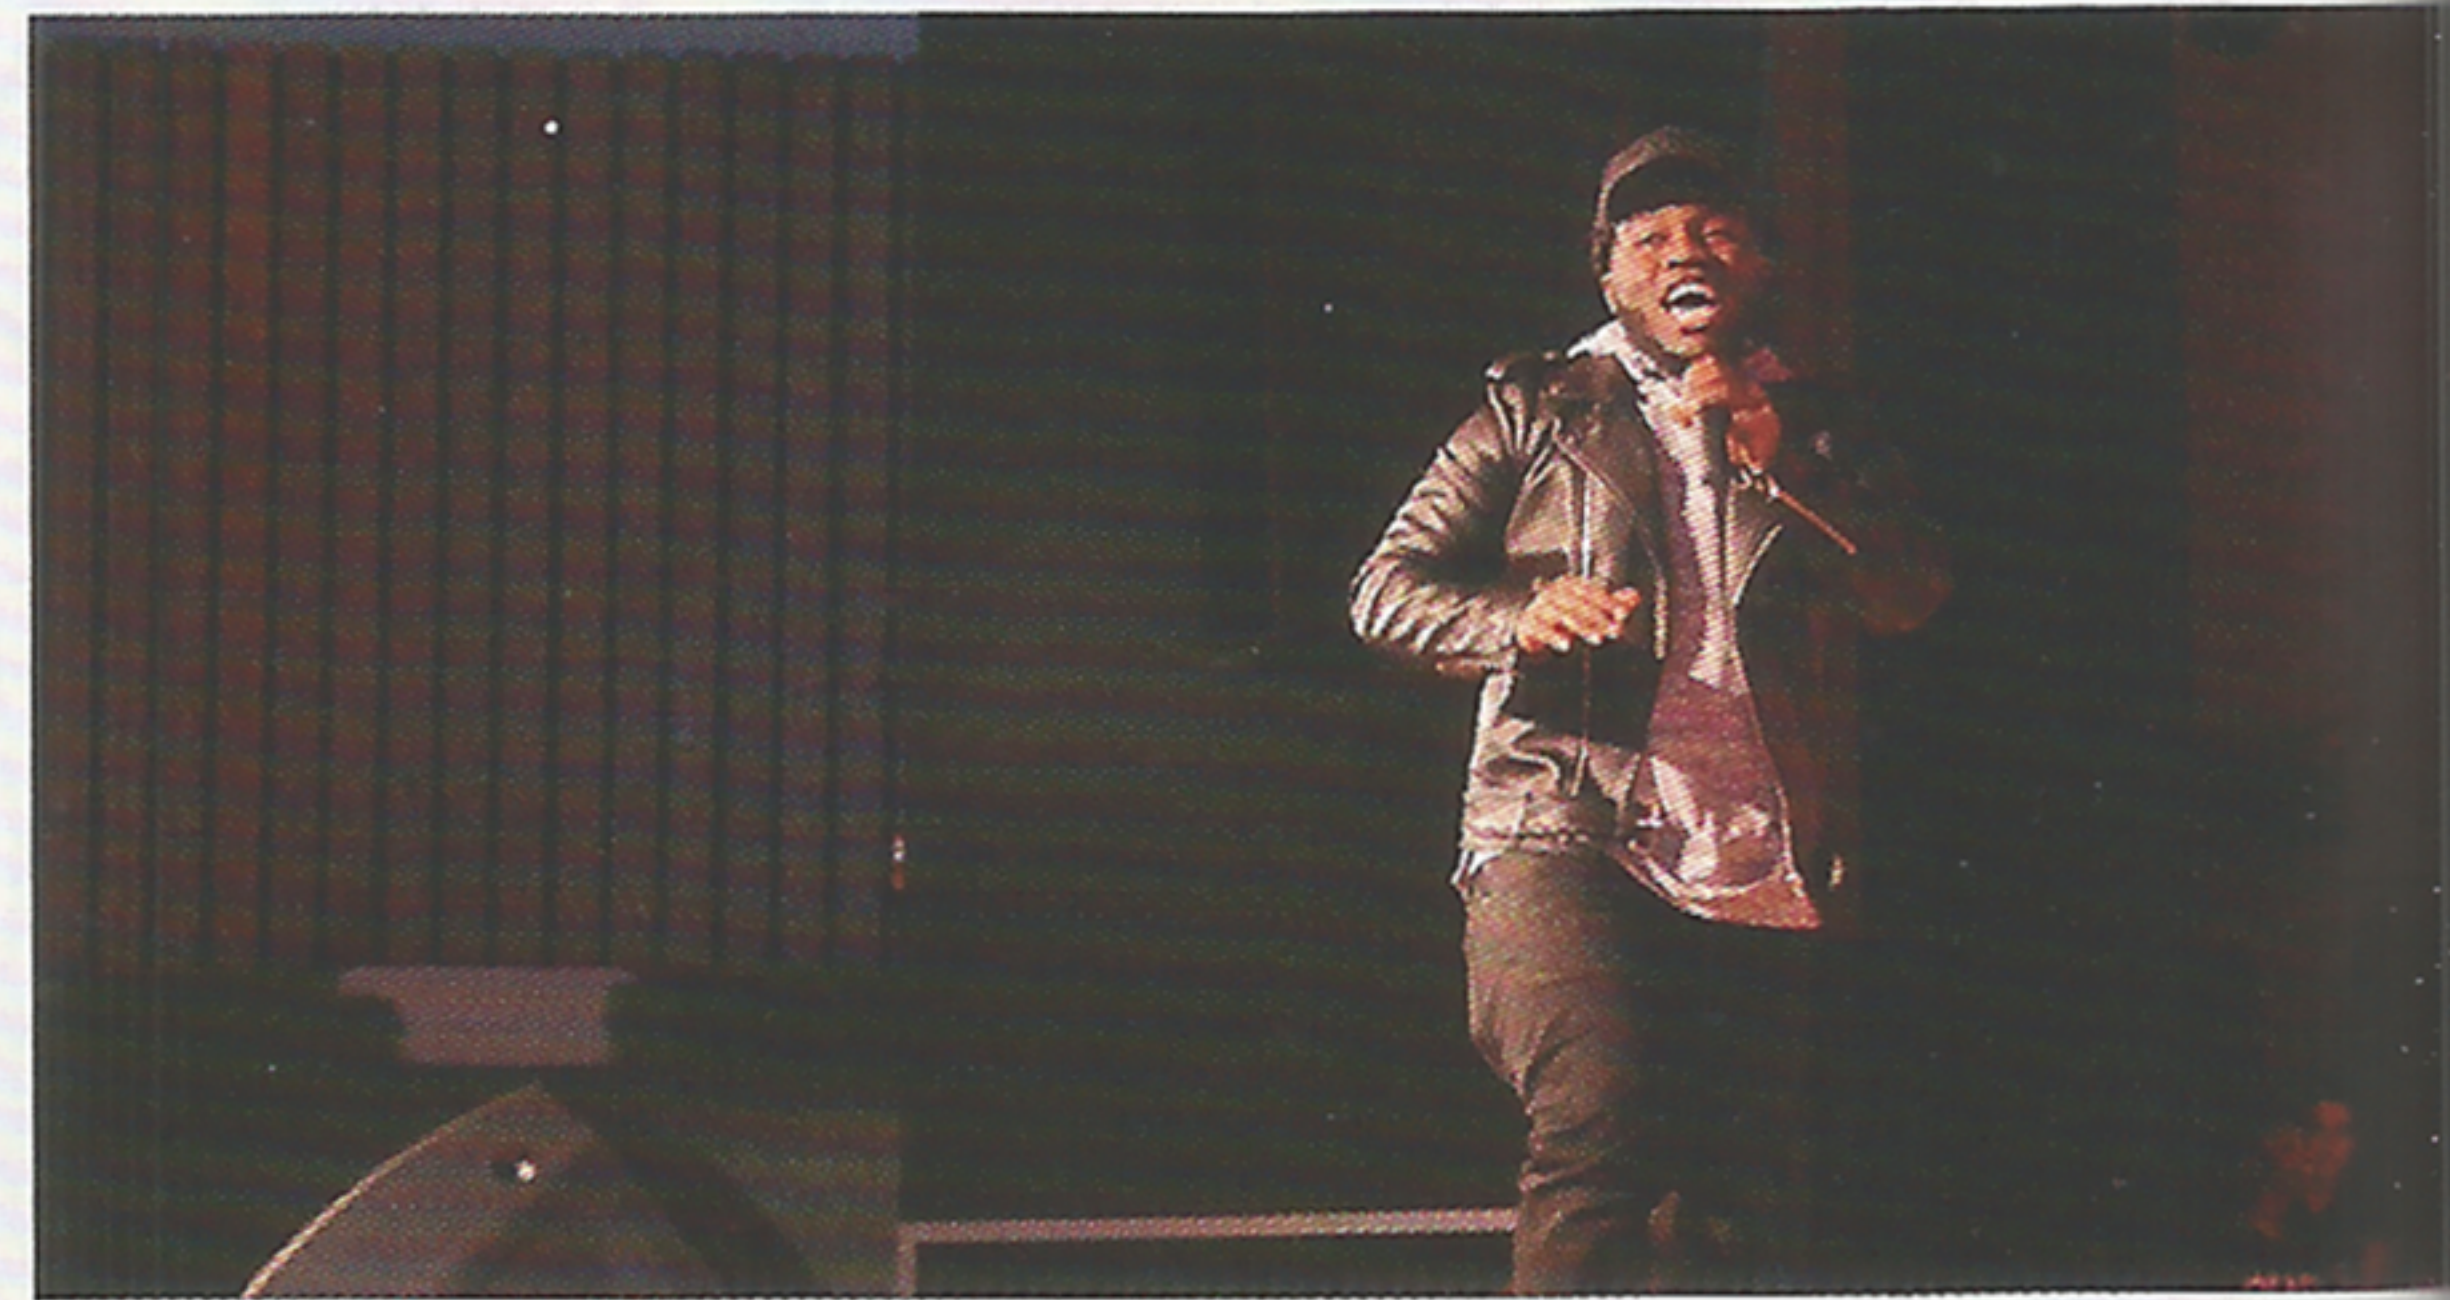

Ms. Cherilyn Scobie, Principal of Westview had some very moving words about the day. "I think it was a very strong tribute to somebody that we have lost. I think it was a great opportunity for students and staff to come together and heal; and I think the most impactful part of the day was having Caheem's family in attendance. It was a powerful day and I'm very glad that we took the initiative to make that happen at Westview."

Although the Day of Peace was a day of remembering, it was also a day of recreation and joy. For the first half of the day, students were introduced to 33 different workshops. Topics included calmness & meditation , art therapy, and even a dance workshop.

After an extensive morning of fun and exciting workshops, Westview came together to serve a fantastic turkey lunch. The lines may have been long, but going back for seconds was definitely worth it.
